

Scarf it up

If you've got to have art, you might as well wear it on your head, with these picturesque 36x36-inch silk squares made from a series of untitled Pablo Picasso lithographs. Yours from the Guggenheim Museum, 1071 Fifth Ave., for $130.

Grecian Formula

If you like to surround yourself with culture, consider a genuine fake of Michelangelo's David, in gold or white plaster, 24 inches. From England, at Hot House, 345 W. Broadway. $75 or bust.

M A N E C H A N C E

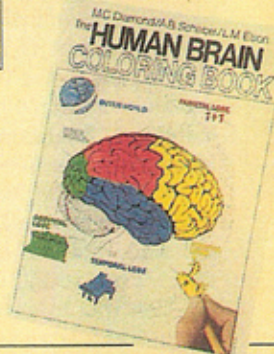

Brush up on your hair at Kiehl Pharmacy, 109 Third Ave. Opened in 1851, Kiehl's chemists make their own products, from "Fluffy Groom with Thickener" to "Chamomile Shampoo for Blondes." But true beauty doesn't come cheap; prices can go as high as $8.50 for "Creme de la Creme Grooming Repairateur with Silk." No matter. If you take care of your hair today, it won't be gone tomorrow.

EDITED BY KIM HASTREITER

Associates Betsey Phelan and Linda O'Keeffe
Photos by Janette Beckman and Ken Korotkin

Grey matter

For students of psychology and biology, The Human Brain Coloring Book can be a cerebral experience. Conceived by a group of neuro-scientists, it's sold at Barnes & Noble for $9.95. Think about it.

Shoe bop

Tiptoe through the tulips in these colorful, sturdy and up-to-the minute walking shoes. The hiking boot, top, is $75, the floral print $60 and the white patent leather $75, all at Trash & Vaudeville, 4 St. Mark's Place.

Get a move on

- Don't shuffle off to Buffalo until you've perfected your technique at the June Laberta Dance Studio, 1467 W. 47th St., where 8 hours of tango lessons costs $50, or at the Fred Astaire Dance Studio, 1780 Broadway, where a 2½-hour ballroom lesson is a paltry $12.

Neat feet

- You can tell a lot about a person by the condition of their feet. So pretend you're one of the idle rich and treat yourself to a pedicure. Ilona of Hungary, 629 Park Ave., offers a little bit of heaven for $25: cleaning, scraping, removing calluses, and bathing your piggies. By appointment: 288-5155.

The better to play footsies with

- Make sure your toes sparkle with health by treating them with, ready? laser beams! Doctors at Manhattan Podiatry, 133 E. 54th St., are using laser beams to cure warts, fungi and ingrown toenails painlessly and with a higher success rate than more traditional methods.