Course Description

The Lankenau Hospital Cancer Center is proud to sponsor the fourth Annual Helene Madeira Breast Cancer Symposium at the Walter and Leonore Annenberg Conference Center for Medical Education. This program has been designed to update physicians and healthcare professionals on advances in diagnosis, treatment and therapeutic options which influence survival and quality of life for women with this disease.

Target Audience

Surgeons, radiation oncologists, medical oncologists, radiologists, residents, fellows, students, nurses and allied health professionals involved in treating breast cancer patients.

Learning Objectives

After attending this program, participants should be able to:

1. Recognize the current best practices for the preservation of fertility in breast cancer patients as well as the outcomes of current treatment methods.
2. Describe the indications and outcomes of breast conservation therapy in BRCA mutations carriers.
3. List the current recommendations for imaging high risk patients and cancer survivors as well as anticipate future trends for these patients.
4. Describe the role of nipple sparing mastectomy, including techniques and outcomes for the procedure from an oncologic standpoint.
5. Discuss advances in targeted therapies for breast cancer including current trial and future research.
6. Analyze ongoing research regarding the micrometastatic environment and potential new targets for treatments.
