Oocyte Donor Agencies

There are many oocyte donor agencies, several of them in the Bay Area. Each of them has a pool of pre-screened egg donors from which you can make your selection. The donor applicants are typically young women in their twenties with low risk for disease transmission and substance abuse. Most of them have made the decision to become an oocyte donor based on a combination of the financial incentive and an altruistic desire to help infertile couples. The oocyte donor agencies usually charge $8,000 to $12,000 (or more). The donor receives about half of this fee as compensation for the inconvenience the treatment will cause her. We work with many oocyte donor agencies. You could find an agency on your own or you can choose one of the following agencies we are most familiar with:
