Alex Miller
Safety Services Director
Leavitt Group

Alex began his safety career in 1992 as a safety specialist at a large heavy construction company based in the Central Valley of California. During his tenure he oversaw safety services for their construction division, as well as training, managing, and developing a staff of safety professionals.

In 2004 he joined the insurance industry to help a broader range of organizations by developing their loss prevention programs. He has conducted workshops and seminars on loss prevention, worker's compensation topics, and legal updates with risk management implications.

He earned an Associate of Risk Management, the professional designation of Occupational Safety and Health Technicians, and holds a Certificate in Safety Management.
